Vicky Boldo

Special Advisor, Indigenous Student Support,
Bishop's University

Vicky Boldo is a Cree-Métis adoptee from the Sixties Scoop era. She is a writer, research advisor, cultural educator/facilitator and a registered energy medicine practitioner (ANQ) and has authored and co-authored a number of articles on social work, cultural safety, land-based learning and her personal healing journey.

Vicky was a Board Vice-Chair for the inaugural National Sixties Scoop Healing Foundation and for the National Indigenous Survivors of Child Welfare Network. She has collaborated with organizations such as the Montreal Indigenous Community NETWORK, is a sought-after guest lecturer and speaker on cultural safety/awareness, intercultural adoption, trauma, and sensitivity training for various institutions including Montreal's Police Service, Médecins du Monde, Health Canada and educators, students and administrators at all levels.

Vicky provides cultural support to front-line workers in the Urban Indigenous community and was also present in this capacity for the TRC, MMIW, Sixties Scoop and Day School application and consultation sessions.

Vicky joined Bishop's University in August 2021 bringing with her experience and knowledge gained from her time at Concordia's Otsenhákta Student Centre and as a member of the Indigenous Directions Leadership Council. Her first year at Bishop's was very much about learning, creating and building. The Indigenous Student Support Centre (ISSC) was co-created with her dynamic teammate and colleague, Shawna Jerome (BU '21) and they both look forward to further developing strong networks and support to, for and with the BU community.

Most importantly, Vicky is a daughter, sister, auntie and proud mother, grandmother and recently became a great-grandmother. The 30+ years healing journey that Vicky has been on gives her the passion and focus to give back to the community and to use her voice and drum song for those that are still muted by colonial oppression.

Michael Goldbloom, C.M.

Chair, Bishop's Forum
Principal & Vice-Chancellor,
Bishop's University

Michael Goldbloom holds a B.A. in Modern European History and Literature from Harvard University and a Bachelor of Civil Law and a Bachelor of Common Law from McGill University.

He worked as an editorial writer at The Gazette in Montreal before beginning his professional career as a labour lawyer at Martineau Walker (now Fasken). In 1991 he became President and Chief Executive Officer of the Montreal YMCA. From 1994 to 2001 he served as Publisher of The Gazette. In 2002, he was a Visiting Scholar at the McGill Institute for the Study of Canada. In 2003 he was named Deputy Publisher of the Toronto Star, and in 2004 became its Publisher. In 2007 he was appointed Vice-Principal (Public Affairs) and Senior Fellow in Media and Public Policy at McGill University. In August of 2008 he became the 18th Principal and Vice-Chancellor of Bishop's University.

In December 2013, Michael was appointed to the Order of Canada for helping to establish several transformative civic organizations in Montreal and for his dedication to building bridges between the city's English- and French-speaking communities.

Michael has an extensive record of community leadership including service as President of Alliance Quebec and Chair of the Board of Directors of the Ville Marie Social Services Centre, Selwyn House School and the YMCA of Quebec Foundation. He was a founding member of the Board of Directors of the Batshaw Youth and Family Centres. He serves on the Executive Committee of the Bureau de Coopération interuniversitaire and on the Board of the McGill Institute for the Study of Canada. In April 2018, he was appointed Chair of the Board of Directors of CBC/Radio-Canada.

Yolande James

Director, Bishop's Forum

Yolande James is a civil law graduate from the Université de Montreal and a holder of a common law degree from Queen's University. She was the recipient of the Senator Frank Carrel Scholarship and was called to the Quebec Bar in 2004.

Yolande was elected to the Quebec National Assembly for the riding of Nelligan in 2004 and was re-elected in 2007, 2008 and 2012. From 2005 to 2007 she was the Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Immigration and Cultural Communities.

On April 18, 2007, she was appointed Minister of Immigration and Cultural Communities. As head of the department, at the height of the highly contentious Reasonable Accommodation debate, Yolande was mandated to implement the recommendations ordered by the Bouchard-Taylor Commission (notably implementing tools to better manage diversity).

Being aware of the challenges facing visible minorities, especially in their access to employment, she initiated, created and implemented the Valorisation Jeunesse Program with the objective of offering young people access to defining professional job opportunities. The program also helped to ensure that the workforce better reflect diversity.

In 2010, she was appointed Minister of Families, managing one of the government's most substantial portfolios after Health and Education. As head of this department, she overhauled the governance for subsidized daycare spots that are critically important to working families. Yolande was the first Black female Member of the National Assembly, as well as Quebec's first Black Cabinet Minister. She was Deputy House Leader for the Official Opposition from September 2012 to April 2013.

After the birth of her son, she left politics following the 2014 general election. Since leaving politics, Yolande works as a political analyst for a slew of different programs for the CBC (Canadian Broadcasting Corporation)-Radio Canada, including RDI's Les EX and CBC's Power and Politics.

In June 2021, Yolande was appointed Executive Director, Diversity and Inclusion, Radio-Canada.

Denise Lauzière

Associate Director, Bishop's Forum

Denise Lauzière joined Bishop's University in 2013. She is Interim Secretary General and Chief of Staff of the Office of the Principal & Vice-Chancellor. In 2003, after working for the Canadian Education Association in Toronto for 13 years as Director of Professional Development and Assistant Executive Director, Denise moved to Sherbrooke to take on the position of Executive Director of the Eastern Townships Alzheimer Society.

In 2005, she fulfilled a professional objective by attending law school. Denise graduated from l'Université de Sherbrooke in 2008 and has been a member of the Barreau du Québec since 2010. She practiced immigration law. Denise is a member since 2012 and a vice-president (2014) of the Ethics Committee for Research on Humans of the Research Centre of the Centre hospitalier universitaire de Sherbrooke (CIUSSS de l'Estrie – CHUS). She is also a member of the Board of Service d'aide aux Néo-Canadiens Sherbrooke.

Denise completed a Certificate in public administration at the École nationale d'administration publique in 2018.

Panel: Women in Leadership

Elysia Bryan-Baynes

Communications Manager,
Canadian Race Relations Foundation

Elysia Bryan-Baynes spent eighteen years as a journalist and news anchor in Quebec.

In 2022 she was named a CBC Black Changemaker for her contributions to the Montreal and Black community.

Elysia hosted the community affairs show Focus Montreal, interviewing a range of political, artistic and business leaders for Global Television Montreal. For two years in 2010-2012, she covered one of her favourite sports – provincial politics – at the Quebec National Assembly.

While reporting the news is her first love, she made news herself in 2013 when she became the first Black woman to hold a permanent television news Anchor position in the Quebec market.

In the past few years, she has hosted events for the Black Theatre Workshop; an organization that honoured Elysia with the Victor Phillips award for young performers back in 1997.

In 2019, Elysia won the Gala Dynastie award for “best English-speaking television journalist”.

Elysia sits on the board of the Fraser Hickson Institute for literacy and is a Community Representative for the Royal West Academy High School governing board.

She also fills her days mentoring young journalists as part of the Canadian Association of Black Journalists' mentoring program and fencing at the Mont-Royal fencing club.

Elysia is currently the communications manager for the Canadian Race Relations Foundation, a Crown Corporation.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 13

Christina Smith '97
Mayor, City of Westmount

Christina Smith was first elected as City Councillor in 2013 and as Mayor of the City of Westmount in 2017.

Prior to entering municipal politics Christina was the Director of Industry and Government Affairs for Coca-Cola. Christina was also the Policy Advisor to the Federal Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs. Involved in many community organizations, Christina believes in civic engagement to ensure that her community is one where all residents benefit from a wide range of programs and services.

Christina hold a Bachelor of Political Science degree from Bishop's University.

Sonja Solomun '09
Research Fellow,
Max Bell School of Public Policy

Sonja Solomun is a PhD candidate and Course Lecturer in the Department of Communication Studies at McGill University. She received her BA in Sociology from Bishop's University and her MA in Sociology from Queen's University. Sonja works at the intersection of critical digital media, cultural approaches to software, and science and technology studies. Broadly constituted, she is interested in the social and political implications of new forms of computational media, and the role and impact of algorithms on everyday life. Her dissertation research asks how the algorithmic architecture of social media platforms generate and renew historic forms of classification and control.

Sonja is a former Project Manager and Research Associate at Geothink, Canada's largest SSHRC Partnership Grant on digital democracy, and a co-editor of a volume of Geothink research, Power and Justice: Cities, Citizens and Locational Technology, under contract with UBC Press.

As a Research Fellow at the Max Bell School of Public Policy at McGill, Sonja works on digital democracy, disinformation and platform governance. Her future research projects explore the politics embedded in machine vision, through cultural histories of artificial intelligence and feminist science and technology studies.

Kristen Young

Co-Director and Administrative Coordinator,
Black Mental Health Connections Montreal

Black Mental Health Connections is an association focused on improving the mental health and well-being of the English-speaking Black community in Montreal. We help our community by developing and offering programs and services that spark bottom-up social change. Our mission is to use our collective experiences to empower members of Black communities by breaking mental health barriers and promoting healing through culturally competent education and innovative community care.

Kristen Young is an information management professional whose work in Black community archives sparked a need to better understand the ways mental health impacts Black history and Black community spaces. Through her own mental health journey, she brings a perspective grounded in education, skill sharing, and non-hierarchy. She has been the administrator behind Black Mental Health Connections since 2018 creating connections and implementing services that provide community care.

Désirée McGraw

Parti libéral du Québec

Candidate for Notre-Dame-de-Grâce

Désirée McGraw was a senior policy advisor for international cooperation within Paul Martin's administration between 2003 and 2006, as well as interim Chief of Staff and Policy Director for the Minister of International Cooperation. The candidate tackled ambitious mandates mobilizing various stakeholders around a common vision.

Ms. McGraw has dedicated a major portion of her professional life to environmental causes, having worked with international environmental protection leaders such as Maurice Strong, David Suzuki, Elizabeth May and Al Gore. She was the co-founder of the Climate Reality Project for Canada in Montreal, President and Director General of the Aqua Forum organization which aims to get young people involved in developing innovative solutions for addressing Canada's freshwater issues.

In 2017, the Liberal candidate was appointed by Canada's Minister of the Environment and Climate Change as a special advisor to the CCICED. Désirée was also a member of several Canadian delegations to the United Nations, including the Nairobi Convention on Biodiversity in 2000 and the United Nations Convention on Climate Change in Kyoto. She worked as an environmental journalist and researcher for the United Nations from 1993 to 1997 and was a youth ambassador at the 1992 Earth Summit in Rio. Thanks to her experience in governmental relations and her dedication to the environment, Désirée McGraw will be able to foster collaboration among various sectors, disciplines, regions and generations in the fight against climate change.

As the former rector of Pearson College from 2015 to 2019, education is one of the main reasons that motivated her leap into active politics. She would like to contribute to building an education system that fosters collaboration, innovation and inclusion.

In addition to her university studies in Canada and abroad as a Commonwealth Scholar at the London School of Economics, the candidate from Notre-Dame-de-Grâce also completed leadership training at Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government, at the Jackson School of International Affairs at Yale and the Désautels Management School at McGill.

Dr. Mélissa Généreux

Québec solidaire

Candidate for Saint-François

Dr. Mélissa Généreux is a public health specialist and associate professor at l'Université de Sherbrooke. After having worked as a public health director in the Eastern Townships for six years, she is now a medical advisor to the Eastern Townships Public Health Department. At the beginning of 2021, she participated in the implementation of a network of mental health scouts throughout Quebec. Her expertise in psychosocial impacts and crisis recovery is known throughout Quebec and internationally.

In addition to her numerous community involvements in the Eastern Townships, Dr. Généreux has regularly spoken out in the public arena, through numerous media relations, appearances in documentaries and major television programs, as well as through her weekly radio column on 107.7, which she recorded for several years.

Her experience in public health and in particular the COVID-19 pandemic have led her to take a critical look at the state of our health care system, where she notes shortcomings in prevention and in communication channels with the population. In a context of pandemic fatigue and polarization around public health issues, she wrote opinion letters advocating for coherent, collaborative practices that promote citizen participation. These reflections led her to run for Québec solidaire in Saint-François in 2022.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 14

Yves Bérubé Lauzière

Parti Québécois

Candidate for Sherbrooke

Yves Bérubé-Lauzière, an engineer-physicist, is a full professor in electrical and computer engineering at l'Université de Sherbrooke. He holds a Ph.D. in electrical engineering from McGill University for work in artificial vision done at the National Optics Institute in Quebec City, as well as a Master's degree in physics-mathematics from l'Université de Montréal for work in quantum optics. He also did doctoral studies in mathematics in Germany. A married father of three, Yves has been an assistant field hockey coach and manager of elite soccer teams. A project person and true leader, he notably led the biophotonics group at the National Optics Institute and was the director of the Bachelor's program in electrical engineering at l'Université de Sherbrooke. Since 2018, he has directed QSciTech, a project management and entrepreneurship training program for quantum technologies. Through these experiences, Yves has forged close ties with many companies, institutions and partners in the innovation field.

Cause-Oriented Careers in Quebec

James Hughes

President and CEO
Old Brewery Mission

James Hughes is the President and CEO of the Old Brewery Mission, Quebec's largest agency supporting men, women and trans people to address or avoid homelessness. Over an admittedly odd and fractured career, he has worked for non-profit organizations, two family foundations, a provincial government and a law firm. Clearly career-confused without the ability to keep any job for very long, James is looking forward to the Bishop's Forum panel and exchange on Cause-Oriented Careers to try and figure out if course corrections are required!

Lili-Anna Pereša

President and CEO
McConnell Foundation

Lili-Anna Pereša was named President and CEO of the McConnell Foundation in November 2020. Previously, she served as the President and Executive Director of Centraide of Greater Montreal for eight years.

The common thread in Lili-Anna's commitments and decades of leadership for various organizations (the YWCA of Montreal, the One Drop Foundation, and Amnesty International France) is to empower people, to contribute to the development of less privileged communities and to help improve the living conditions of the most vulnerable populations. Lili-Anna's years of humanitarian work (notably with CARE in Croatia and Bosnia-Herzegovina, with Oxfam in Burkina Faso, and as a science teacher in Malawi) have earned her numerous distinctions, including an honorary doctorate from the Université de Montréal, and an appointment as Knight of the Ordre National du Québec.

An engineer by training, Lili-Anna graduated from the École Polytechnique de Montréal in 1987 before going on to earn a graduate degree in management from McGill University and a master's degree in political science at the Sorbonne in Paris.

Stéphane Vaillancourt

President and CEO
YMCAs of Québec

With a Bachelor's degree in Electrical Engineering from the École Polytechnique de Montréal and an MBA from McGill University, Stéphane Vaillancourt had a successful career at Bell Canada resulting in senior positions in Business development, Sales and Innovation.

In addition to his multiple professional and personal responsibilities, Mr. Vaillancourt has been involved for many years with various community organizations working with youth and seniors. Most notably, he was chair of the Board of Les Petits Frères, whose mission is to counter the isolation of the older people throughout their remaining years. He also chaired the board of Imagine Canada, a national charitable organization devoted to Canada's charities, and was Vice-Chair of Cybercap, an organization dedicated to the reinsertion of young adults in the workplace through multimedia.

Since November of 2002, Mr. Vaillancourt has been the President and CEO of the YMCAs of Québec, a charitable organization whose mission is to encourage and inspire all people to fulfill their potential, thrive and contribute to their community. As the first YMCA in North America, the YMCAs of Québec have been present in Montréal since 1851. They offer programs in more than 30 centres and points of service and virtually across the province, as well as operating an International Language School, YMCA Residence and Camp YMCA Kanawana. Thanks to partnerships with different levels of government and the generosity of its volunteers and donors, each year, the YMCA helps gather more than 100,000 people of all ages and backgrounds by giving them opportunities to learn, grow and develop their skills.

MONDAY, AUGUST 15

11:15 a.m.– 12:15 p.m. Communications Workshop

Jonathan Goldbloom

Partner

Avenue Strategic Communications

Jonathan Goldbloom has been providing executives and organizations with communications advice and support for more than three decades.

Jonathan led the award-winning campaign to keep the Shriners Hospital in Montreal as well as successful campaigns to secure psychologists the right to diagnose children with autism spectrum disorders and to expand access to English schools. Over the past two years he has been responsible for steering the CIUSSS West Central Montreal's communications activities related to the pandemic. At the same time, he has played a pivotal role in organizing Quebec's English-speaking community's response to Bill 96, An Act respecting French, the official and common language of Quebec, on behalf of the Quebec Community Groups Network (QCGN) including a rally and march attended by close to 5,000 Quebecers, and Bill 40, An Act to amend mainly the Education Act with regard to school organization and governance, on behalf of APPELE-Quebec. As a founder of Coalition Inclusion Quebec, he organized public hearings on Bill 21, an Act respecting the laicity of the State, and developed and implemented the organization's communications strategy. Other notable projects include advising the Innu of Newfoundland and Labrador in their dispute with Hydro-Québec and providing communications advice and support to the Kateri Memorial Hospital Centre and the English Montreal School Board.

Jonathan has provided advice and counsel to a number of political leaders and has played leadership roles in federal, provincial and municipal election and leadership campaigns.

Jonathan has extensive experience writing corporate publications and speeches, working, for example, on publications for Montreal Kasher, Centennial Academy and College, the Miriam Foundation, the Cedars Cancer Foundation, and Cedars CanSupport.

Jonathan is bilingual and received his education at Harvard (Honours B.A.), Carleton University (M.A.) and at the University of Western Ontario (M.B.A.). He is a member of the Board of Directors of Via Rail and previously served on the Boards of Directors of the Stratford Festival, CIJA and Selwyn House School.

Debbie Hynes

Regional Manager of Communication,
Marketing and Brand
CBC Quebec

Debbie is the Regional Manager of Communications, Marketing and Brand for CBC Quebec. In the past two decades she has helped technology companies, start-ups and community organizations tell their stories to better connect with audiences. Debbie has a Bachelor of Arts from Memorial University and a Bachelor of Public Relations from Mount Saint Vincent University.

Bert Archer was born and raised in Montreal and lived in Alberta, British Columbia, and Ontario before returning to become Editor-in-Chief of the Montreal Gazette in 2022.

He has been a journalist since 1993, spending time working freelance as well as on staff at various publications in print and online, including the Globe and Mail, the Toronto Star, the National Post, the Washington Post, the Wall Street Journal, CNN and the BBC, covering topics including urban issues, sexuality, literature, real estate, and travel, the last taking him to about 80 countries over the past decade.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 16

Sean Henry
Host
CBC Daybreak

Sean Henry is an award-winning journalist and host of Daybreak, CBC Montreal's weekday morning radio show. Sean is a veteran journalist and broadcaster. In his different roles at CBC, from TV news anchor to VJ to newsreader to reporter, Sean has delivered journalism that Montrealers and Quebecers count on. He is a Montrealer through and through, with an extensive knowledge of and connection to the many parts of the city and the people in it.

Sean joined the Montreal newsroom in August 2012 after seven years at CBC Windsor. While in Windsor, Sean regularly anchored for both CBC-TV and Radio, worked as a court reporter and video-journalist. One of the highlights of Sean's time in Windsor was covering civil rights activist Rosa Parks' funeral in Detroit.

Prior to moving to Windsor, Sean reported from the Quebec City courthouse and the National Assembly for Global Quebec.

Sean has a bachelor's degree in journalism from Concordia University. He also has a law certificate from Université de Montreal and has completed coursework with TELUQ and Algonquin College. Sean has a black belt in Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu, studies ballet and has trained in circus aerial silks and straps. He grew up in LaSalle, and now calls the city's east end home.

Annalise Iten, PPCC
Senior Employment Coach
YES Montreal

Annalise's passion is helping people identify their career goals and the strategies that translate into meaningful work and careers.

A Certified Professional and Personal Coach (PPCC) and Employment Counsellor, she has been working with diverse and talented clients who are in career and life transition using a holistic and collaborative approach for over 20 years. Annalise believes in having those important "career conversations" throughout our lives because there is never just one option or choice to be made.

She is proud to have helped organize several important employment conferences and trainings to help address the needs of the English-speaking community and to ensure that their voices are heard.

Teneille Arnott (She/Her)
Project Manager, Women Employment Readiness
Quebec
YES Montreal

Teneille is an implementer of feedback, a diversity and inclusion advocate, and a life-long learner.

She has worked at YES as a Program Manager for the past two years.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 16

Previously she was manager of Youth on the Rise, an employability skills program for 18- to 30-year-olds with barriers to employment. Teneille worked directly with youth, facilitating workshops, helping them see their full potential, and supporting them in their transition to the workforce. Collaborating across sectors, she built partnerships with companies and organizations to hire participants into an inclusive environment.

Recently, alongside her team, she built a new employability skills program for women and non-binary individuals who have been out of the workforce for an extended period, called Women Employment Readiness Quebec (WERQ). WERQ will be working directly with participants and helping companies become accessible and inclusive to this population. Please feel welcome to ask Teneille questions about these programs, vent about the challenges of being an anglophone in Quebec, or tell her about your wildest ideas!

PARLIAMENTARY COMMISSIONERS

Celine Cooper

Managing Director, Consortium of English-language CEGEPS, Colleges and Universities of Quebec.

Celine Cooper is the Managing Director, Consortium of English-language CEGEPS, Colleges and Universities of Quebec based at Bishop's University. A former politics editor at The Canadian Encyclopedia and columnist with the Montreal Gazette, she has appeared frequently as a political analyst on television and radio public affairs programs in Quebec and internationally.

Celine is president and chair of the governing board for the Fraser-Hickson Institute, and former chairperson of the board of directors for the Association for Canadian Studies. She holds degrees from Queen's University and York University, and is a part-time instructor at Concordia University's School of Community and Public Affairs.

William Floch '78

Assistant Secretary, Secretariat for Relations with English-speaking Quebecers

On November 24, 2017, William Floch was appointed as the first Secrétaire adjoint (Assistant Secretary) in the Government of Quebec's Ministère du Conseil exécutif with the responsibility to establish the Secretariat for relations with English-speaking Quebecers (SRQEA).

Prior to this appointment, Bill worked in the area of research and policy development for the Department of Canadian Heritage beginning in the early 1990s. Before embarking on his career in government, Bill worked as a teacher and principal in the English-language school system in Quebec and also worked in the community sector for Townshippers' Association and Alliance Quebec.

Bill is a graduate of Bishop's University where he was an active participant in university life, serving as Editor of The Campus student newspaper and playing hockey for the Gaiters.

PARLIAMENTARY COMMISSIONERS

The Honourable Joan Fraser, C.M.

Former Senator

The Honourable Joan Fraser is a former journalist and retired senator. As editorial page editor (1978-93) and editor-in-chief (1993-96) of the Montreal Gazette, Joan focused on minority rights, particularly the rights of Quebec's English-speaking community, with the aim of fostering mutual respect and understanding between Quebec's linguistic communities – still her goal today.

Joan is a terrific model of Parliamentary knowledge and experience, given that she has chaired several committees, including Legal and Constitutional Affairs; Rules, Procedures and Rights of Parliament; Transportation and Communications; and the Special Senate Committee on the Clarity Act. She also sat on the Official Languages Committee which authored the 2011 report, The Vitality of English-Speaking Communities: From Myth to Reality, which advocated for English-speaking Quebec to be equitably supported by the federal government. Currently she is the chair of APPELE-Quebec, an advocacy group working to preserve English school boards.

Joan received the Quebec Community Groups Network's Sheila and Victor Goldbloom Community Service Award in 2019 and was appointed to the Order of Canada in 2020.

PARLIAMENTARY COMMISSIONERS

Sampreet Arneja

Past Bishop's Forum Participant

Sampreet Arneja is an actor, filmmaker, and musician. He currently studies psychology at Concordia University. Through his various experiences in the many creative scenes he has explored, he has fallen in love with Québec culture and his hometown of Montréal! He ran a podcast with Youth 4 Youth Montréal called Say La Vie. Sampreet speaks five languages and has traveled to over 12 countries around the world. These experiences further impassioned him to explore, soak in new experiences, and meet many new people in order to hear their stories and see the world through their eyes.

Kétura Daméus

Past Bishop's Forum Participant and Coach

Kétura Daméus was born in Haiti but grew up in Montreal and Terrebonne. She graduated from Bishop's in 2020 after completing a certificate in Pre-Law. She then completed 33 credits in Industrial Relations at Université de Montréal. In the Fall, she will start a Bachelor of Laws at the same university. Kétura is passionate about social justice, and she is actively involved in the children's and youth ministry of her church and in the student life of her university. She sat on multiple student associations, including the Bishop's University Student Representative Council (BUSRC) and the Fédération des associations étudiantes du campus de l'Université de Montréal (FAÉCUM). She strives for an empowered youth.

COACHES AND STAFF

Kétura first participated in the Bishop's Forum in 2019 and had a blast meeting and working with engaged peers from across the province, which is what has driven her to return year after year as a coach and a member of the Youth Advisory Committee.

Amie Godward

Amie Godward is a third-year Psychology student at Bishop's University with a particular interest in policy and advocacy. As the outgoing Vice-President Student Life for the Bishop's Students' Representative Council (2021-22), Amie was an advocate and voice for Bishop's students attending university during a worldwide pandemic. Health care and mental health were amongst the top concerns for young adults and in particular, access to anglophone resources. Amie was also a Peer Supporter for the BUnited Peer Support Centre and a founding member of the Sexual Culture Committee, committed to changing the culture of sexual violence in the community. Amie is a passionate advocate and leader, supporting change and social justice for young adults.

Jack Jerrett

Past Bishop's Forum Participant

Jack Jerrett is 19 and excited to attend this year's Bishop Forum. Born in British Columbia, Jack has worked across Canada doing community work. Studying History at University of Ottawa, Jack is committed to upholding the culture and heritage of his community. Furthermore, he is currently cooperating with the Aylmer Historical Society and the Regional Association of West Quebecers on bringing Tours of Outaouais' History to the public. During his free time, Jack enjoys reading, volleyball, and video editing. Having recently moved to Quebec in 2018, Jack is excited to meet new people and continue his work.

Virginia Rufina Marquez-Pacheco

Past Bishop's Forum Participant

Hello everyone! My name is Virginia and I am a third-year undergraduate student at Bishop's University. Originally a Physics and Mathematics student, I am also pursuing a degree in Classical Studies. In addition, I am the Mathematics Representative of the Astronomy, Mathematics and Physics Society, and the new Executive Editor at the Bishop's Undergraduate Research Journal. I am a very curious person with a wide range of interests. From studies of the natural world to social justice issues, to reading fantasy novels and practicing yoga, I always find things of interest to do. I participated in the Bishop's Forum 2021 and this year I will be one of the Coaches. The Forum is a great opportunity to learn about Quebec society, to gain tools to participate in our communities, and to make new friends. I can't wait to meet you all there!

Ashley Paul

Past Bishop's Forum Participant

Ashley was a nurse clinician for three years at the Montreal Children's Hospital. She acquired a Bachelor's in Nursing in 2019 and subsequently completed a certificate in Victimology at l'Université de Montréal. During this time, she also took part in professional modelling.

After a short, yet rewarding career in healthcare, she is now taking on a new challenge by starting McGill University's Law program.

Ashley is a Bishop's forum alum, having participated last year for the first time. She is delighted to return as a coach.

COACHES AND STAFF

Hensly Jocelle Pedrosa
Past Bishop's Forum Participant

Hensly Jocelle Pedrosa was born and raised in the Philippines and immigrated to Montreal in 2015. She is a third-year undergraduate Honours student in Political Science at Concordia University. She is deeply committed to the empowerment of young people, women, and Filipinos and is involved in the Filipino Organization of Concordia University Students as the Vice President of Events for the upcoming academic year, with the goal of connecting students of the Filipino community to their roots and each other, challenging issues within the community, and celebrating the Filipino/a/x/s identity.

To reflect her passion, love for her country and concern for the Filipino/a/x/s diaspora, she co-authored an article about the 2022 Philippine Election and is actively involved with community work as a member of the board of directors of Centre Kapwa, a non-profit organization that seeks to empower the Filipino community in Montreal and provide a wide range of services that fosters the well-being and integration of Montreal Filipino/a/x/s from all waves of migration, with values anchored in decolonization and restorative and transformational justice.

In her pursuit of a career in the legal and political fields, her ultimate objective is to further assist Filipinos in Canada and to inspire youth and women of colour to take up space and create waves in society for its betterment.

Jon Marvin Reyes
Past Bishop's Forum Participant and Coach

Jon Marvin Reyes was born and raised in the Philippines and immigrated to Montreal with his family in 2014. He graduated from Dawson College in 2020 and went to McGill University to study Political Science with particular interests in Canadian and Philippine politics, immigration policies, and social justice issues affecting visible minorities. His passion for community and public service has led him to serve various institutions. In his home country, he was involved in his secondary school's student organization where he received a Leadership Award in recognition of his volunteer works.

Recently in Montreal, he took part as the Vice President of Academics of McGill University Filipino Asian Students Association and wrote articles for the McGill International Review and the Asia Pacific Foundation of Canada. Today, he is the Projects Coordinator of Centre Kapwa, a non-profit organization that serves and supports the well-being and inclusion of Montreal Filipino/a/x/s from all waves of migration by offering experiences and workshops rooted in values of social justice to uplift and unite Filipino/a/x/s diaspora. As a former participant and coach of the Bishop's Forum, Jon Marvin is eager to pursue a career in the legal and political field where he can help facilitate the needs of immigrants and the growing Filipino community in Canada.

Houston Rifai

Past Bishop's Forum Participant

My name is Houston Rifai. I am a Master of Public Policy and Public Administration candidate at Concordia University and currently work as a junior policy analyst for Innovation, Science and Economic Development Canada (ISED).

Prior to this I obtained an undergraduate degree in History and Political Science at McGill and worked as a teacher, a community organizer, and in landscaping/construction. In my personal life I love to cook, play rugby, do walking/history tours of Montreal, podcasting, and play trivia with friends.

I am very happy to return as a coach this year having attended and loved my experience with the 2021 Bishops' Forum, I hope you will all have just as amazing a time as I did!

TJ Sweeny

Past Bishop's Forum Participant

I grew up in the Eastern Townships and attended high school, CEGEP and university here, in English. I am currently a Bishop's University student studying Political Science. I have a passion for social justice reform and have long volunteered with the Champlain and Bishop's Refugee Sponsorship Group as well as attended the 2013 World University Service of Canada Conference.

COACHES AND STAFF

Arielle Warten

Past Bishop's Forum Participant

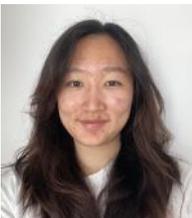

Arielle Warten is a 21-year-old Sociology Student at Concordia University. She is also working with the Quebec Community Groups Network, as a third year Junior Policy Analyst. Her interests include social equality activism, linguistics, sustainability, environmental activism, veganism, history, political and social philosophy, genealogy, anthropology, fine arts such as music, painting, dancing, etc. This is her first year as a coach at the Bishop's Forum and is very eager to meet you all.

Shirley Xu

Past Bishop's Forum Participant

Shirley is going into her final year of undergrad at McGill University, studying Economics and Biology. She is very interested in sustainability and public policy. Having participated in last year's Forum, she can attest to how meaningful and rewarding the conference is: the connections you make, the discussions you become a part of, the fun you have :) Outside of school, Shirley leads TEDxMcGill, sits on student government representing academics, and works at a strategy consulting firm. She loves camping, outdoor adventures, sports, and music. She is so excited to meet everyone at this year's Forum!

Cindy Zhao

Past Bishop's Forum Participant

Hi! My name is Cindy. I just graduated Cegep at Marianopolis College and will be entering my first year of university at McGill next fall. I like to spend my free time at the pool or volunteering. I participated in the online version of Bishop's Forum back in 2020 and had an amazing time meeting amazing people, discussing and learning. Looking forward to meeting everyone!

Sarah Haddon '01

Bishop's Forum Support Staff

Sarah Haddon graduated from Bishop's University in 2001 with a degree in English Literature. After completing her Master's at the University of Ottawa in 2002, Sarah returned to the Eastern Townships and joined the marketing and communications team at an insurance assistance company. In 2012 she was back on the Bishop's campus as the Alumni Relations Coordinator in the Advancement Office, a position she enjoyed for three years. After a brief hiatus and time spent working as a freelance editor and translator, Sarah returned to Bishop's in early 2019 to take on the role of Special Projects Officer in the Office of the Principal.
